<sup>1</sup>On November 7, 2008, all proceedings against defendant Barry were stayed by the Bankruptcy Court. On November 20, 2008, Barry, LLC filed for bankruptcy. On January 21, 2009, the Barry, LLC action was dismissed by the Bankruptcy Court. On January 23, 2009, the Bankruptcy Court lifted the stay.

actions.<sup>3</sup> These cases were consolidated for pretrial purposes on November 17, 2008. On December 24, 2008, all plaintiffs filed an Amended Consolidated Complaint, which included the following additional defendants: Saint Joseph's Development Corporation and HK Holdings, LLC.<sup>4</sup> The Amended Complaint included causes of action for violation of federal and New Jersey securities law, federal and New Jersey RICO, fraud, conversion, negligent misrepresentation, breach of fiduciary duty, breach of contract, breach of implied covenants of good faith and fair dealing, and unjust enrichment. Plaintiffs seek compensatory, consequential, and punitive damages, attorneys' fees, and costs. Presently before this Court is the Delia plaintiffs' motion to attach certain assets belonging to the defendants. Defendants have not opposed this motion.

For the reasons set forth in my prior ruling in Monteleone et al. v. Leverage Group et al., 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 78983 (E.D.N.Y. October 7, 2008) ("Monteleone"), and the additional findings of fact and conclusions of law set forth below, the motion is granted.

Background

Familiarity with the defendant parties and procedural history is assumed. The following facts are drawn from the Delia plaintiffs' complaint, and are substantially similar to the facts of the Monteleone case. Defendants do not dispute any of the facts alleged plaintiffs.

The Plaintiffs

Plaintiff Ann Marie Delia is the Administratrix of the Estate of her late father, William A. Delia, who died on October 1, 2004, and was a resident of Brooklyn, New York. Robert Sweeney and Veronica Sweeney are married and reside in Brooklyn, New York. Tara Sroka resides in New York, New York. Ludvig Haugedal resides in Brooklyn, New York.

Facts Common to All Counts

Over the course of approximately twenty years, defendants solicited investments from plaintiffs by promising that they would provide safe investment opportunities with guaranteed returns. Complaint at ¶ 15. Plaintiffs relied on defendants' written guarantee that the investments would earn a minimum 12.55% annual return. Id. Defendants failed to make all of the promised interest payments, and when plaintiffs attempted to withdraw their principal amounts, they were told that the funds were not available. Id. at ¶ 16. Defendants made the following statements to each of the plaintiffs, which plaintiffs later learned to be false: (1) that Barry was a professional licensed investment manager with a successful track record in managing investments for individuals; (2) that this track record went back to 1977; (3) that the Leverage companies had excellent performance records; (4) that the Leverage companies had consistently earned annual returns of 12.55%; (5) that investment in the Leverage companies would be safe; (6) that investment in the Leverage companies would earn a guaranteed minimum annual return of 12.55% or, in some instances, 36%; (7) that interest income would be paid quarterly; (8) that funds invested in the Leverage companies would be held in segregated accounts for each investor; (9) that investors would receive quarterly statements evidencing the change in their accounts over each quarter; and (10) that investors in the Leverage companies would be able to liquidate their accounts upon request. Id. at ¶ 18.

Individual Plaintiffs

While Mr. Delia was alive, he at various times invested sums of money with defendants. Id. at ¶ 21. Plaintiff Estate alleges that, as of March 31, 2008, its account had a balance of $460,650, which has not been returned despite its requests that defendants do so. Id.

Ann Marie Delia invested $133,749.78 with defendants. Id. at ¶ 22. Defendants have not made all of the interest payments that were agreed upon. Id. Plaintiff Ann Marie Delia alleges that, as of March 31, 2008, her account had a balance of $133,749.78, which has not been returned despite her requests that defendants do so. Id.

Robert Sweeney and Veronica Sweeney invested $16,000 with defendants on October 6, 1994, $50,000 on September 8, 1997, and $10,000 on June 17, 2003. Id. at ¶ 23. Defendants have not made all of the interest payments that were agreed upon. Plaintiffs Robert and Veronica Sweeney allege that, as of June 30, 2008, their account had a balance of $247,613.53, which defendants have not returned despite their requests that defendants do so. Id.

Tara Sroka invested $10,000 initially. Id. at ¶ 24. Defendants have not made the agreed upon interest payments. As of June 30, 2008, Tara Sroka alleges that her account had a balance of $35,824.78, which defendants have not returned despite their requests that defendants do so. Id.

Ludvig Haugedal invested $10,000 with defendants. Defendants have not made the agreed upon interest payments. As of June 30, 2008, Ludvig Haugedal alleges that his account had a balance of $35,894.51, which defendants have not returned despite their requests that defendants do so. Id.

Discussion

Plaintiffs request an order of attachment, pursuant to Rule 64 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and N.Y. C.P.L.R. § 6201 ("§ 6201"), directing levy upon the identified real and personal property within defendants' ownership, possession, custody, or control. Under Rule 64, attachment is available in the manner provided by the law of the state in which the district court is held. See Fed.R.Civ.P. 64. New York law requires that plaintiffs seeking attachment must show by affidavit (1) that there is a cause of action, (2) that there is a probability of success on the merits, (3) that a ground for attachment listed in § 6201 exists, and (4) that the amount demanded from defendants exceeds all counterclaims known to plaintiffs. See N.Y. C.P.L.R. § 6212(a) ("§ 6212(a)"). Plaintiffs have submitted an affidavit attesting to the veracity of these claims. See Affidavit of Robert K. Marchese.

Plaintiffs have presented sufficient evidence that they deposited investment funds with defendants that have not been returned upon request as required by contract and that are currently unaccounted for. Plaintiffs have also presented evidence that defendants have engaged in misrepresentation regarding the nature of the investment and the status of the investment monies when inquiries were made. Plaintiffs have fulfilled the first requirement of § 6212(a). Plaintiffs have also satisfied the fourth requirement that the amount demanded from the defendant exceeds all counterclaims known to the plaintiff, as defendant has not made any counter-claims against these plaintiffs at this time.

Likelihood of Success on the Merits

Plaintiffs allege that defendants committed fraud. Under New York law, a fraud claim consists of five elements: 1) a representation of material fact; 2) that was false; 3) scienter; 4) reliance by the plaintiff; and 5) injury. See Vermeer Owners, Inc. v. Guterman, 78 N.Y.2d 1114, 1116, 585 N.E.2d 377, 578 N.Y.S.2d 128 (1991). Rule 9(b) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure requires that the circumstances constituting fraud or mistake shall be stated with particularity. Fed. R. Civ. P. 9(b). However, "[m]alice, intent, knowledge, and other conditions of mind of a person's mind may be alleged generally." Id. The rule is "intended to ensure that each defendant is provided with reasonable detail concerning the nature of his particular involvement in the alleged fraud." The Equitable Life Assurance Society v. Alexander Grant & Co., 627 F.Supp. 1023, 1028 (S.D.N.Y. 1985). Fraud allegations in a complaint therefore must: "(1) specify the statements that the plaintiff contends were fraudulent, (2) identify the speaker, (3) state where and when the statements were made, and (4) explain why the statements were fraudulent." Shields v. Citytrust Bancorp, Inc., 25 F.3d 1124, 1128 (2d Cir. 1994). Although the scienter requirement need not be plead with particularity, "[i]n order to avoid abuse... plaintiffs are required to allege facts that give rise to a strong inference of fraudulent intent." Campaniello Imports, Ltd. v. Saporiti Italia S.P.A., 117 F.3d 655, 663 (2d Cir. 1997) (internal quotation marks and citations omitted). The requisite "strong inference" of fraud may be established either (a) by alleging facts to show that defendants had both motive and opportunity to commit fraud, or (b) by alleging facts that constitute strong circumstantial evidence of conscious misbehavior or recklessness. Shields, 25 F.3d at 1128.

Plaintiffs have satisfied the pleading requirements for fraud and have shown a likelihood of success on the merits. Plaintiffs have made a showing that defendants misrepresented the nature and conditions of the investment, that they knew their statements were false, and that plaintiffs relied on these statements to their detriment. Inter alia, they have stated that defendants repeatedly claimed that the investments were safe and that plaintiffs would be able to withdraw their principal at any time, both of which statements were knowingly false. I find that plaintiffs are likely to succeed on their fraud claim.<sup>5</sup>

Grounds for Attachment

To establish the relevant grounds for attachment, plaintiffs (a) must be seeking a money judgment, and (b) must show that defendants, "with intent to defraud creditors or frustrate enforcement of a judgment that might be rendered in plaintiffs' favor, [have] assigned, disposed of, encumbered or secreted property, or removed it from the state or [are] about to do any of these acts." § 6201(3). The complaint seeks a money judgment, thereby satisfying the first requirement.

Based on plaintiffs' uncontroverted allegations and on my prior ruling, I find that defendants have assigned, disposed of, encumbered or secreted property. Money belonging to plaintiffs is unaccounted for even after repeated requests by plaintiffs. Furthermore, as found in my prior ruling, defendants used Leverage Group investor money to buy the building in Kings County that is the defendants' place of business, and in all likelihood, plaintiffs' money was used to purchase or maintain some of the properties that are being sought to be attached. Bank statements also show that Barry used the accounts into which he directed the investors to deposit funds to make payments on various mortgages and also of his personal living statements. Furthermore, Barry has made several unexplained transfers of real property to Philip Barry LLC. Defendants have thus dissipated investor funds and thereby disposed of property within the meaning of § 6201(3). Defendants do not dispute this evidence of past disposal.

I also find that there is strong evidence of an intent to defraud. Defendants induced plaintiffs to give defendants money with false promises. When plaintiffs became suspicious and sought return of their money, defendants refused. Defendants offered changing stories for why the money could not be delivered. Defendants have refused to identify the money and how it was invested. These facts support a finding of intent to defraud.

Reverse veil piercing

Properties subject to the attachment include those attributable to Barry's privately held entities, Philip Barry, LLC and Leverage Management, LLC, which have no business purpose or holdings other than the real property that plaintiffs seek to attach. Plaintiffs can attach the real estate owned by these companies because plaintiffs have made a showing sufficient to disregard the corporate form, and it is therefore appropriate to attach properties held by corporate defendants in this case.

Conclusion

For the reasons set forth herein, plaintiffs' emergency motion to attach certain assets belonging to the defendants is granted. The Clerk is directed to transmit a copy of the within to all parties and the assigned Magistrate Judge.

SO ORDERED.
